Text: 1.- What is your recommendation for those persons that doesn't want to receive Deeksha or doesn't feel anything with the Deeksha or doesn't believe in Deeksha?

For these people there is only one thing you can do: you can give them what is called Smarana Deeksha or what is called Thought Deeksha. That is without looking into them or touching them, you could still give a Deeksha. That could be given and the next best thing is you could only pray for them. That's all, nothing more can be done.

That is the answer for the first question.

2.- There is a deeksha giver who works delivering babies. What is your recommendation for the moment the baby is being born and what is your recommendation for the other persons that are present but are not deeksha givers?

So, the moment the child is born, the child could be given what we call as Smarana Deeksha or Thought Deeksha, then those around could say nice things to the child like: How beautiful you are!, How wonderful you are!, How happy you are! So they could talk to the child saying things as though they are already happen, like they could say "Oh you are so wonderful!, Oh you are so great!, Oh you are so rich!" They can make such positive statements to the child as though it were a full grown adult. There can either speak it or just think about those things inside their hearts. Inside they can think: "What a wonderful child you are!, What a great child you are! What a beautiful child you are! You are truly great!" So whatever you want for the child you could either actually tell or you can speak inside yourself. That is what they should do, while there is a deeksha giver can give Thought Deeksha.

If this happens, this will become the program of the child's life and the child's life will accordingly follow and exactly follow what all thoughts you have for the child.

That is the answer for the second question.

3.- What is your recommendation for those people that acting according and sincerely with what they feel in their hearts, hurt other persons with their acts?

If you sincerely come from your heart if you are really following your heart and sincerity you do things, there is impossible to hurt another. In case you are hurting another with sincerity it means you are coming from the head, from the mind. That is when other people could get hurt. But however straight forward you are, how authentic you are, how sincere you are, if you come from the heart is impossible to hurt another. So that is what you have to practice. You must check out and see if it is coming from the heart or the head. Very easily you can confuse the heart for the head. It is very difficult to come from the heart, it needs a lot of practice a lot of authenticity only then you will know if you are coming from the heart. If you have a nice feeling in the heart, then it comes from the heart. You actually feel a very nice feeling it is impossible to hurt another. You can speak the truth straight on his face and it wont get hurt. But the problem is you often come from the mind.

That is the answer for the third question.
