Interview with Sri Amma

Arjuna:

Amma, thank you so much for you (are) willing as/us to have this interview. I know it's a very unusual thing. I am very grateful to you.

Amma, you said in darshan with 10.000 people receiving your darshan, looking at you, when you look from your chair you see all of these people.

What do you see and what do you feel?

Amma:

When I look at them I feel they are my children.

I experience their suffering, their problems and their pleasures.

I wish good for them and keep blessing them for the fulfillment of their desires.

Arjuna:

Amma, we hear – I hear reports of many miracles which happen around you: people become healed of diseases, people have money flowing in their life that was not there before, relationships get better. When these miracles happen are you consciously aware of each one? Or does it happen spontaneously?

Amma:

Yes, I know all that is happening.

Very rarely a few miracles happen without my knowledge. I take sanskalpa (hold an intention) for most of the miracles that happen, though some miracles happen naturally and automatically, I know everything.

Arjuna:

Amma, the Divine force expresses itself differently through you and it does through Bhagavan. What is that difference?

Amma:

Amma and Bhagavan are one. They are the mother and the father aspect of the Divine.

Bhagavan gives people grace as the father,

Amma as the mother fulfills their desires,
needs, health problems, in fact everything.

Bhagavan all the time is concerned about the spiritual growth of people and leading people towards Mukthi (Oneness).

Bhagavan is focused on that while Amma is immersed in fulfilling people`s desires.

Arjuna:

Amma, you have a son, Krishna, I have met him in Los Angeles and you have also a daughter in law and a grandchild. I met all of them in America. Amma, as a mother and a grandmother what is your vision for the youth of this planet?

Amma:

My message for the youth is
that their hearts must flower.

I want to tell them that they should not make their decisions from their heads,
but rather make them from their hearts.

Arjuna:

Amma, all over the world women today are emerging as leaders and they are getting a level of respect and listening which has not happened before. Women are emerging as political leaders religious leaders in all kinds of ways. What is your message to women? There are more than 3 billion women in the world. What is your message to these 3 billion women?

Amma:

Women of the world must become educated in their childhood.

Even as students women must become knowledgeable about conception,

bringing up the child in the womb,
delivering the child and also about
child upbringing.

It is important they learn all this.

For this, their hearts too have to flower.
They have to learn a lot through personal experience.

If they learn this, the world would be contributing superior human beings to the world.

It is then possible to create a new form of society.

That is how women have to prepare themselves for their role.

Arjuna:

Amma, you are known as the Divine mother. What is the Divine mother?

Amma:

In God there are two aspects, the masculine and the motherly or feminine aspect.

I am the Divine Feminine, I am that Mother. I am the Divine Mother.

Bhagavan is immersed in transforming and giving enlightenment to humankind and I am immersed in helping them in worldly matters, fulfilling their desires, solving their problems.

That is what I am immersed in.

Arjuna:

Amma, what is real love? What is real pure love?

Amma:

If I desire that the other must belong to me alone, must not talk or relate to anybody else, and I force the other into loving me, that is not pure love.

If we love someone because we find some qualities in them we don't find in ourselves, that too is not love.

But if the heart were to flower, no matter who the other person is, no matter what kind of person the other is,

we will continue to love.
That is true love.

That is possible only after you have had an experience.

Arjuna:

Amma, we live in America. My wife and I are friends. We visit also Europe. How can we cultivate love and compassion so that we treat human beings with the respect they deserve?

Amma:

That is a very difficult question.

All humankind is one being.
All humans are actually one person.

You should not think that “what is going on in me is something different and unique from others.” That, “my thoughts are different from the rest.”

It is humanity’s suffering that is flowing through us.

You need an inner spiritual experience to know and feel this suffering completely.

That is when the state of love
would take birth in you.

You can know this only through an experience. There is no other way.

Therefore, what is going on in the other and what is going on in you is not different.

All suffering is one.
We are all one.

Only when you have this experience,
is the state of compassion possible.
